Green Cove Springs Electric Receives Statewide “Building Strong Community” Award for Programs that Enhance the Community

Green Cove Springs, Fla. – The Florida Municipal Electric Association (FMEA) recently recognized Green Cove Springs Electric with a “Building Strong Communities” award for making valuable investments that enhance the quality of life in its community, beyond efficient delivery of affordable, reliable and clean energy.

FMEA recognized public power utilities for programs and projects that provide community education, collect charitable donations, improve the environment, focus on crime prevention and other special programs that strengthen the communities in which they serve. They proudly join 19 other community-owned Florida public power communities in receiving this prestigious recognition.

The Green Cove Springs Electric team was selected for their outstanding engagement with students during Florida City Government Week and their vital role in City-organized events throughout the year. Their dedication and contributions have truly made a significant impact on our community.

“Florida’s public power utilities not only serve their communities, but they also help create a sense of community. Whether that’s inviting residents out for movies in the park to hanging holiday decorations to gathering items for a food drive, our utilities and their employees want their communities to be the best they possibly can because they live there, too,” said Amy Zubaly, FMEA Executive Director. “We applaud each of these utilities, including Green Cove Springs Electric, and their employees for all their efforts to support and strengthen their communities.”

Florida’s 33 public power utilities, combined, are the third largest electric provider in the state, serving 14 percent of Florida’s customers. Florida’s public power utilities serve more than 3 million Floridians and are a statewide employment leader with more than 5,700 employees.
